PRESERVING PRETTY FACES.

Much Harm Done the Complexion by the Improper Use of Powders. From a Letter in the Newark Advertiser.

The desire to improve the appearance or preserve her beauty is implanted in every woman's heart. Nothing can be said against the desire; it is perfectly legitimate. But very much can be said against the methods widely seized upon to reach the wished-for end. A moderate use of simple violet powder for the bath or used lightly on the face is not injurious to the skin. It has a pleasant feeling and takes away the glossy look from some faces; but chalk and paste that are too frequently used give the skin an unnatural and pearly appearance, and when the folly of using rouge on the cheeks is added a pretty face is vulgarized. Many ladies have an indelicate manner of powdering in public, and if you are a careful observer you will frequently see a young woman on boat or train or in a waiting-room take out a handkerchief with powder in one corner and deliberately chalk her face, very often before men who are standing about. One of the most beautiful blondes I ever saw contracted the habit of powdering to excess. Her natural complexion was exquisite and she had no need of artificial aid, but she thought it added to her appearance, and so she powdered to such an extent that every one noticed it and gave her no credit for what nature had really done for her. A proper care of health and diet will add the most of anything to one's appearance, and the laws of health are entirely opposed to filling the pores of the skin with chalk and paint that are frequently composed of poisonous ingredients, which are not only dangerous, but vulgar. Mrs. Labouchere's advice to ladies is to wash their faces in very hot water if they wish a beautiful skin and no wrinkles has been widely read and adopted by many women. The complexion, because it is one of the first and foremost attributes of feminine beauty, is more tampered with, more subjected to every conceivable style of treatment than the care of the hair, teeth, eyebrows, lashes, nails and hands would amount to altogether, if summed up in one. Such various treatments of the skin often result in doing it more harm than good. Washing in hot water is undoubtedly very beneficial for the skin in certain cases, but with all due respect to Mrs. Labouchere, it is not to be recommended universally. It is self-evident that each type requires a treatment particularly adapted to its own needs, and women must exercise their own judgment in such matters and study what sort of skin they really have.

It is not well to use much soap, notwithstanding some women preach another gospel in reference to it, but if you have a very fresh, tough skin you may be able to stand frequent latherings for a few years and imagine you owe your freshness of coloring to that, but you will soon see the folly.

How to Loosen a Tight Screw. The London Builder says: "One of the most simple and readiest methods for loosening a rusted screw is to apply heat to the head of the screw. A small bar or rod of iron, flat at the end, if redheated in the fire and applied for a couple or three minutes to the head of the rusted screw, will, as soon as it heats the screw, render its withdrawal as easy by the screw driver as if it was only a recently inserted screw. As there is a kitchen poker in every house, that instrument, if heated at its extremity, and applied for a few minutes to the head of the screw or screw, will do the required work of loosening, and an ordinary screw-driver will do the rest, without causing the least damage, trouble or vexation of spirit. In all work above the common kind, where it is necessary to use screws, and particularly in hinge work and mountings, fancy fastenings and appliances affixed to joinery or furniture work, we would advise the oiling of screws or the dipping of their points in grease before driving them. This will render them more easy to drive and also to withdraw, and it will undoubtedly retard for a longer time the action of rusting."

The Mice Did It. An interesting exception to the distress reported as prevailing in the building trades of Paris is presented by the case of a workman there who has just been the victim of what, it is hoped, will prove a not irreparable misfortune. The honest fellow had saved 2000 francs, but very foolishly had not banked his riches, and carried them about in notes on his person. For safety, he hid them one day last week in the cellar of a house building in the Avenue de Versailles, where he was working. When he went to look for them the pocket-book which had contained them was lying open, and the notes were gone. A few small fragments of paper, however, were seen lying about, and he observed to someone that mice might be the thieves; and on a search being made a mouse's nest was discovered lying with the notes nibbled into small pieces. The Bank of France is trying to put the pieces together, and if the numbers can be ascertained will give other notes in exchange.

GENERAL AND PERSONAL. San Saba county was visited by a destructive hail storm on Thursday last, and crops were badly damaged. The acreage of cotton will not be as great this year as last. Two cattle trains of 15 cars each, have been passing up the Santa Fe road daily for some days, and it will take a month or more to finish moving the cattle. Millheim is the shipping point. The death is announced of Mr. Edward Fordham Flower, who was widely known for his humane crusade against the cruel practice of driving horses with bearing reins, having for many years labored to influence public opinion in this matter. D. H. Howell, who, two years ago, while Station Agent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road, absconded with $10,000 belonging to the Quincy Coal company, returned a few days ago and paid the full amount with interest. He has since been in Mexico and amassed a fortune. Apropos of the Rev. Lord Stamford marrying himself to a Hottentot, a correspondent states the question whether a clergyman could marry himself was decided some 20 or 30 years ago by the House of Lords in an appeal from Ireland, where a Presbyterian minister in the county Down had married himself. It was decided he could not.

A Common-sense Remedy.

SALICYLICA. No More Rheumatism, Gout or Neuralgia. Immediate Relief Warranted. Permanent Cure Guaranteed.

Five years established and never known to fail in a single case, acute or chronic. Refer to all prominent physicians and druggists for the standing of Salicylica.

SECRET. The only dissolver of the poisonous uric acid which exists in the blood of Rheumatic and Gouty patients. SALICYLICA is known as a common-sense remedy, because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so-called specifics and supposed panaceas only treat locally the effects.

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid. SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid and so removes the disorder. It is now exclusively used by all the celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy of Paris reports 95 per cent. cures in three days.

REMEMBER that SALICYLICA is a certain cure for RHEUMATISM, GOUT and NEURALGIA. The most intense pains are subdued almost instantly. Give it a trial. Relief guaranteed or money refunded. Thousands of testimonials sent on application.

$1 a Box. Six Boxes for $5. Sent free by mail on receipt of money.
